

Fundamentals of Jungian Psychology

A Focus on Numinosity

Spring 2013

Classes offered by the C. G. Jung Institute of Colorado

In 1937 Carl Jung describes numinosum as “a dynamic agency or effect not caused by an arbitrary act of will.” He goes on to say it is an experience of being seized and that the subject is the “victim rather than the creator”. In our series of classes this spring we will explore Jung’s thought on numinosity and how it can be experienced in our lives. Analysts of the Jung Institute of Colorado will teach and offer discussions on the topics listed below. This is an excellent opportunity to work with the members of the Jung Institute of Colorado, and is designed to be enjoyed by beginners as well as individuals who are “experienced” in Jungian studies. The classes are on Wednesday nights.
