

Fundamentals of Jungian Psychology

“The Symbolic World through the Lens of Fairy Tale and Legend”

Winter-Spring 2014

Classes offered by the C. G. Jung Institute of Colorado

Carl Jung wrote and spoke often of the importance of symbols and living the symbolic life. In this group of classes, various symbols that appear in fairy tales and legends will be studied and explored in relation to their symbolic meaning in fairy tales and legends as well as in life today. Analysts of the Jung Institute of Colorado will teach and facilitate discussion. These evenings are designed to be enjoyed by beginners as well as individuals who are “experienced” in Jungian studies. The classes take place on Thursday nights.
